Mayor, Voicing Approval, Welcomes the Separation of Freshman High Class From Older Students and Relieving Grammar Congestion

Glendalians continue to notify the office of the Glendale Daily Press that they are behind the Press plan to save the old high school plant from sale and to knit the city and union high school systems more closely together. Following are a few of the expressions of sentiment regarding the proposal:

John Robert White: "I am absolutely opposed to selling the present plant. It must be retained in our school system. Unless there is absolute need, I am absolutely opposed to the board spending more money on the new

Oldest Man in the United States Is Dead at 133

GREASY CREEK, Ky., July 10.—"Uncle" Johnny Shell, said to be the oldest man in the world, is dead. Records he had preserved purported to show he was 133 years old, having been born in Tennessee in 1788. For 100 years he had lived on the same farm in Leslie county. He was "too old to fight" in the Mexican war.

At his funeral will be two sons, one 83 years older than the other. They are: William, 90, and Albert, 7. The latter is the son of Shell's second wife, who was 45 when she was married. By his first wife, who died 12 years ago at the age of 122, Shell had four sons and a daughter. His children survive him. Up to the last he maintained complete possession of his faculties.

"SHAME" AT THE GLENDALE

"Shame," the William Fox special which began a run yesterday at the Glendale theater, must be ranked with the best in screen offerings. It is a fascinating and en-thralling tale, and scenically the picture is beautiful. It is one of those impressive photodramas that stand out from the general run and help establish new standards of excellence in the foremost field of entertainment.
The production adds to the fame

Fourth of July crowds at the nearby beach towns were the largest on record. Every summer the popu- the privilege of seeing the best of them. larity of these resorts becomes more evident. The same is true as to Long Beach and Newport and Balboa, a little farther from the community center, and yet all within easy reach over perfect highways.

Santa Monica, Ocean Park and Venice, so far as the visitor is concerned, must be regarded as a unit. Before them stretches as inviting a beach as bathers ever trod. The water is safe, free from treacherous undertow. Accidents are guarded against with the utmost care. Of course the crowd is bigger in summer, but such is the suavity of the climate that bathing is continuous throughout the year.

Reaching from Santa Monica towards the mountains is a curving line of palisades crowned with verdure and bloom. Just back from these are ideal areas for homes, affording a sweep of the ocean and ship is the most important. It is the secret of social the purple hills, swept by refreshing breezes from the Pacific. The beauty and availability of this great space is just being realized. Homes and institutions are rising there, and soon it will have the population of a city. Santa Monica has reached the determination to make the most of its natural equipment. The placid bay, strangely neglected as an adjunct to recreations. is to be made the place for every form of aquatic sport. A generous campaign of advertising is now in progress. The truth is being told about the fair region. and a knowledge of the truth is all that is needed to develop it into one of the finest resorts in the world.

The beaches of southern California form one of ite chief assets, so far as this end of the state is regarded as the nation's playground. They offer every natural attraction. They are not remote from metropolitan advantages. They are well conducted, although unhampered by blue laws. A few hours from the nature must be completed under the influence of that sea, and one may be in the coolness of the mountains The combination is unmatched. LIGHT ON INDIA

A recent letter from Mahatma Gandhi, now prisoner on a charge of sedition, throws a light on conditions in India. Apparently quite unconscious of what he was doing, the agitator made clear to all that his mission is mischievous, and that the triumph of the cause he represents would mean the plunge of India into darkness profound. He desires the other bond than friendship.

Every institution in which any class of men are destruction of all the agencies of civilization, and the reign of ignorance.

deceased husband. The facts exposed by the prisoner ought to end the tendency of persons in this country to support the plan for Indian independence. Civilization, with its faults admitted, is a form of progress, and appeals more strengy to the cultivated senses than a state worse than barbarism possibly could do. Civilization is ambitious to struggle on to better things, rather than to throw away the good it has acquired. It could not afford to weight itself with such an incubus as an India conducted by native madmen.

WASTING MONEY

Complaint is made that a recent battle for the pugilistic lightweight championship was a "financial frost." The gate receipts were only $60,000. The promoters had figured on more than double this amount. The real surprise is that the $60,000 should have been yielded by an easy public. If there is a matter in which there is no reason whatever for feeling concern, it is as to the fistic prowess of a pair of bruisers. People who enjoy fighting may engage in a better type any time they choose to take issue with the iceman, or decline to pay fare on a car which has a husky conductor. There are far more interesting fights staged as the result of disagreement between automobilists, or an argument over politics, or the attempt of a policeman to grab a burglar caught in the act. But superior to the average ring contest as any of these events must be regarded, the public would not pay a fancy price for

The plain truth is that a pair of pags in drawing $60,000 for a meeting are being ridiculously overpaid out of their share and the promoters are getting an income absurdly out of proportion to their industry and accomplishments. The members of the combination have found a way to prey upon human credulity and weakness, and for the high pay they receive, they render no service whatever.

Of all things in the world of human beings friendevolution. We might say that it is the force that is pushing the race toward its maturity, and we might say that it is the goal toward which the race is bound.

In every sort of human relationship friendship is essential. The most fundamental of all the relationships is that of marriage. Marriage is begun by passion. It has for its cause the greatest urge among all the natural instincts. But while marriage is begun by passion it can only be continued and become a success when it has developed into friendship.

DR. FRANKCRANE What commences under the influence of a force which is derived from our animal force which is derived from our moral nature.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

A millionaire back east proposes to devote a part of his fortune to abolishing the debutante s'ouch and the flapper walk.

There has been much criticism, tending to harshness, concerning the manner in which girls walk. Most of their pedal frailities are due to high heels and tight shoes. These deform the feet break the arches, produce corns and bunions, cramp the toes, cause callouses to grow. In other words, they make cripples of girls. Thereafter the young persons have to proceed in the manner of cripples.

If the millionaire can induce the victims he seeks to rescue, to wear shoes that fit, lop off the stilts, and quit their Cinderella foolishness, he will have gone far. A wee foot on a big girl is precisely as grotesque as a big foot on a wee girl. No part of a million dollars should be necessary in teaching this fact to, any person not non compos mentis. As for the slouch, the makers of fashion plates are to blame. The figures upon which they drape the latest creations almost invariably are hollow chested, and bulge where a correct posture would repress them. Perhaps the imitation of these figures by the girls who scan the patterns is unconscious. Happily it is not general anyhow. The slouch as portrayed by the artist, would make a living beauty hideous. She would be a freak. Nevertheless the effect of the models is apparent to some extent.

HENRY JAMES

In seeking to cure the swaybacked, hollow chested and clubfooted victims of fashion, the millionaire has a noble purpose, and if successful, his money would be regarded as well spent even were he to use

William Allen White of Kansas loves dogs. He is an editor. Another editor remarks that dogs belong to savages. The second editor is wrong, of course.

While it is possible for a dog to belong to a savage, the savage is to that extent rendered less a savage. Dogs belong to men who admire faithfulness and affection. They belong to boys whose instincts are normal.

The less a hater of dogs says concerning his own weakness, the better his chances for commanding respect.

Last July a number of thieves robbed the United States mails of about a million and a half in cash and securities. It was regarded in the underworld doubtless, as a fine coup. Now a shrewd detective has caught the whole bunch, recovered much of the booty, and long sentences await the criminals. Detectives occasionally go into the coup business, too.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

The Missus and I have decided that we must retrench this season. We must give something up. Conditions do not permit us to indulge in all the luxuries we would like.

"And what shall we give up, my dear?" I asked. "Let us try to do without Bill Crane," said she.

Bill is a good guy. There isn't a doubt of that. He is the sort who will go the limit for a friend. It is true that Bill tells the friend about it rather often, but it is true for all that. When the antiquated mess of cogwheels I call my car broke down last week Bill cheerfully towed me in. 'Any time that any one comes to town that Bill thinks might be interested in he fixes up a lunch. Then he does all the talking, so that I do not get acquainted at all with the stranger. If one of his friends gets sick he telephones the house until the sick friend's wife wishes fervently that Bill would lose the hearing in his left ear, so that he would not bother her so much. Bill would sit up with a sick friend if the friend would let him. If the folks But O as to embrace me she enclind in Bill's circle held wakes when one of them popped off you would I walk'd, she fled, and day brought back my find Bill at the head of the coffin all night long, welcoming all

Certainly there is a but. Bill is frank. He is candid. Bill be lieves in telling the truth. When he sees a friend making a fool of himself Bill is the boy who brings in the tidings. There is no doubt that he kept Harris Noone from marrying the Chicago widowno doubt in the world. But Noone moved out of the suburb so that he should not be compelled to see Bill any more. The widow was all right, you see. Bill had merely confused her with another, but the harm was done. He told me that I cannot afford to keep a car. I know that I cannot, but I fail to see that it is any of his business. Mrs. Amabel Pope, who lives next door, learned from Bill that the rest of us have been giving a little giggle when Amy appears in public in her high bottom skirts. But Amy liked them, and if the rest of us were able to get a small laugh out of Amy's structural soundness that was our business. Not Bill's. But he horned

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA E. STEWART

It's so easy to think the worst of anybody. Why? Who can tell? Let the least suspicion of shadow fall on man or woman and how very few there are that will stand up opposingly and declare: "Very likely we haven't the whole truth. Let's wait awhile before we pass judgment." Instead we accept rumor, hearsay, more or less malicious innuendo, as if it were undisputable fact. Great friends of the Say-so and Do-tell families are many of us!

No wonder we cannot induce the higher type of men and women to accept office. They have potent examples before them always of the falsehoods which have to be borne, the malice which attacks, the purposeful misunderstanding and maligning of the highest efforts. Yet wherein lies the satisfaction in trying to tear from another his reputation—a thing that is long in building up, but which can be torn down in an hour, all possibility of perfect restoration forever lost? How many of us are so sublimely perfect that we can afford to be censorious, even if others are at fault?

We have set up false standards for ourselves-personal standards, standards plumbed with no fundamental truths, but with our The sins which are ours are in comparison very pale gray, almost heliotrope, when compared with those that are the favorite stumbling blocks of others.

BEST EXPLAINED BY
CHAIRMAN REN. W. HOOPER
OF THE UNITED STATES RAILINGAD
IN HIS STATEMENT OF JULY 1ST
READING AS FOLLOWS: "In this case the conflict is not between the employer and the oppressed employes. The people of this country, through an act of congress, signed by Breathest Wilson, established a tribung to decide such disputes over wages and working countrions which are submitted to it in a proper manner. It is the decision by this tribunal against which the aboptratts are striking.

"Regardless of any question of the right of the men to strike, the men who take the strikes" places are merely accepting; the wages and working conditions prescribed by a government tribunal and are performing a public service. They are not accepting the wages and working conditions which an employer is trying to impose. For this reison public sentiment and full governmental power will protect the men who remain in their positions and new men who may come in."

Adequate provisions have been made for the full protection of all new employes, the same as old employes who have re-mained loyally at york. Applicants Should Apply at

IOWA'S PROGRESSIVE SENATORIAL CANDIDATE AND FAMILY

There is nation-wide interest in the candidacy for the United States sengte of Colonel Smith W. Brook hart, whose nomination in the recent primaries was a blow to the "old guard" group. Brookhart is for many of the policies which Senator La Follette supports, and during his campaign put the Newberry issue to the fore. The photograph shows Colonel and Mrs. Brookhart and their six children. In the top row are John, Charles E. and Smith, Jr. In the foreground are seen Ediht, Joe and Florence.

Marking Vigil of St. Ubaldo

WEIRD RITE

GUBBIO, Italy - (By Mail) .-Scenes reminiscent of the days of tree worship back in the very dawn of history, have just been witnessed in this ancient Italian town.

Pagan ceremonials, connected with the Vigil of St. Ubaldo, which have been condemned by two Popes and banned by Napoleon, were carried out with Bacchanalian fervor.

"The Elevation and Procession of the Candles" is the English name of the festival which set Gubbio, one of the five oldest towns in Italy, afire with fervor.

At noon at the convent of Santa Lucia there is a feast going on which is attended by the Ceraioli, or candle bearers. All Gubbio is awaiting the proceedings here, for as soon as the white-bloused, redcapped Ceraioli finish eating, they rush out in the courtyard where three huge wooden obelisk-like affairs are lying. These are the so-called Ceri, though many think the name comes from the Goddess of fertility, Ceres, instead of from wax candles. Beside them, are huge wooden shafts or frames. The outrush of Ceraioli reveals them in three distinct groups, one bearing an image of St. Ubaldo the patron saint of Gubbio, and representing the stone masons; another the image of St. George, representing the merchants; and a third, St. Anthony, carrying in his hand a ball of fire, representing the peasants. The levation of the Ceri, which are twelve feet in height, the placing of the images on the pinnacles, is the great competition. The winof course, hailed with shouts of joy. As soon as the Ceri are raised, a jug of water is poured over each—the ancient lustration rite described in the Eugubine tablets being seen in the act. When the libation has been poured out, the jug is thrown to the ground and broken.

Then through the narrow streets of Guibbio, each taking a different route, a mad rush begins. Already the Ceraioli have been given plenty of wine, but now, looking down a medieval street before a picturesque stone house, you may the fluttering robes of St. Ubalda swirling before an ancient house. Three times round goes the gyration, which means that there is an offering of wine to the Cerajoli.

For several hours the Ceri are placed at the head of the Via Dante and the Ceraioli spend the hours in song and recreation. Then at vespers an interesting ceremonial takes place. The big bell in the palace of the councillors announces that the archbishop in procession, with a banner of St. Ubaldo, is leaving the cathedral to give his benediction to the Cerix

When the religious procession reaches the Via Dante, the Ceri have been once more placed upon its rich furniture and rose-shaded lights, the heiress and her husthe shoulders of the Ceraioli. At soon as the benediction is given, "Percy, dear," she said presently, rounded by a huge crown, run, a tender light in her blue orbs, "do At the end of the street a stop wing is offered. Then

How to Figure Your Want Ad

Count five average words to ach line. The address at the foot of your Want Ad is counted also. Each number, initial, etc., counts as one word. For example, the name, "John C. Smith," is three words; "212 W. Main Street" is four words; "160 acres, 3 miles from railroad, $300 per acre," is nine words, etc. In case you want a keyed or "blind" address used instead, indicate so above. The "blind" address comprises five words and will be counted as part of your advertisement.

At noon on a pleasant Sunday, onine persons, residents of Cambridge, Idaho, dined together in celebration of the birthday of one of their number. The table was bountifully, if simply, laden. Happiness and good will heightened the enjoyment of the feast. All voted the day a great But next morning one of the celebrants, a schoolteacher, awoke with unmistakable and curious symptoms of disease.

She experienced difficulty in breathing and swallowing. Her vision was blurred, she suffered from dizziness, and felt strangely exhausted. Also she complained of a peculiar numbness of her arms and legs. Suspecting that she had in some way been poisoned, the physician whom she consulted prescribed vigorous eliminative measures. These were of no avail. Within twelve hours the unfortunate young woman

BERKELEY, July 10.-California co-eds may go to bed with the chickens, although there is no case on record, but they don't want to get up with them.

Hence the co-eds have gotten together, and are asking an antiooster ordinance for the city of Berkeley. They have no objection to hens, but to introduce strutting nales into the chicken pens of Berkeley's intellectual backyards is too much, say the co-eds. The first move against the chanicleers was made by Miss Gertrude a junior student, who ap-Charn peared before the city council and asked the anti-rooster ordinance. "Roosters are entirely out of place in a university community," Miss Charny declared. "Thinking people cannot have good health and ive around roosters. Hens are all for 1921 of over $7000 in excess of right, but roosters crow too much."

Meeting Under Auspices of Caldwell Feed and Supply Company

TUJUNGA

TUJUNGA, July 10 .- "Cooperative Marketing and Team Work" is the theme chosen by E. C. Hogsett, chairman of the poultry-man's department of the Los Angeles county farm bureau, for his address tonight at the schoolhouse. The meeting is to be held under the auspices of the Caldwell Feed & Supply company, and everyone interested in the raising of poultry, rabbits, bees, goats, grapes, avo-cados, citrus and deciduous fruits is invited to be present. In addition to the address by Mr. Hogsett there will be a talk by a representative of the county farm advisor's office, covering, generally, all the topics mentioned

In order that the growers of fruit, vegetables, poultry and rabbits in Tujunga may be brought more directly in touch with the county farm bureau, a farm bureau center may be organized here, if interest in the meeting tonight seems to warrant it.

It was lurid, I say, But in style it was neat, And the pink plaster maid Had no head and no feet.

I just glanced as I say Not to scold or to scoff, And the sign caught my eye: "Twenty-five per cent off."

I remembered the stripes, I remember them still, Though I just caught a glance, And perhaps always will.

But the suit and the sign I forgot there and then, Till one day at the beach I came on it again.

It was on a pink maid Who was-well, I'd say neat, Not of plaster and she Had both head and her feet.

"Twenty-five per cent off" Was the sign I had read. But I'm sure, at the beach It was fifty instead.

Babson's Letter

OUTLOOK

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass. July 8.—In discussing the general situation for the week, Roger W. the statistician, today made the following analysis of the crop outlook:

"Today interest is around the prospective 1922 crop output. I cannot overestimate the importance of agricultural products LONDON, July 10.—Plea to the at this time, not only as a business confer- optimism to probable developments during the next few years. "The outstanding feature of the June government report is that acreage of all wheat, oats, and rye is 2.2 percent less than a year ago, but the estimated yield is 17.1 per cent greater. This means that growing conditions are compara-tively favorable. I have yet to witness a year where crop scares and marked price fluctuations did ont materialize. Weather and in-sect ravages cannot be forecast, bust as conditions now stand, the total grain output shoud about equal normal proportions. The winter wheat crop is now being har-vested, the yield estimated at 3.4 percent over 1921.

"Spring wheat figures are placed at 18.8 percent more than a year ago, with the total considerably in excess of the ten-year average. Nevertheless, wheat is statistically strong. Our exportable surplus for the current year was placed at 255,-000,000 bushels. Actual exports for the season approached 265,000,-000 bushels. The relatively large crop is entirely offset by the limited carryover. Australian and Argentine stocks are also limited. True, the price level of wheat is high compared with corn and oats. Wheat, however, is the naural leader and I would make one point clear, namely, that until Russia is again in a position to feed a great portion of Europe, the price of wheat in this country will remain

"The number of acres devoted to oats is 6.7 percent under a year well-known that oat prices are fun- partment. damentally too low. Considering the limited crop of a year ago and heavy consumption on the farms, ern angle. It states that it was the carryover promises to rule far started by an American officer in under normal proportions. This phase is not discounted by the present price level. I anticipate a runs out of dumbells. The recipihigher average price level for oats ent is asked to copy the "good during the 1922-23 season. The rye crop shows the most radical developments of all. Acreage is 13.3 percent over last year, while the fall him.

Babson agricultural index of ten leading products is now quoted at 148, which shows a 28-point rise over the low during the fall of 1921. The elevation in agricultural products has already increased the spending power of the farmer. It should be remembered that 1922 producing costs-labor, and transportation—are ranging on a more popular basis compared with recent years. Therefore, with good crops and a higher average price over the next year, the farmer's income is bound to return all Europe.

The Express said that Secretary of State Hughes inaugurated this is history, and the former tank of the merica's "new diplacement of the state of the merica's "new diplacement of the former tank of the former ure that successfully coped with the curtailed European and domestic demand. This year the carryover is nearly back to normal proportions and a crop in excess of 11,500,000 bales is not indicated. This means that the total supply is about equal last year's figure, but the potential demand is greater.

"Europe has been taking be-tween 5,000,000 and 6,000,000 bales annually since 1913," concluded Mr. Babson. "The pre-war figure was between 8,000,000 and 9,000,000 bales. Eprope must buy raw cotton in greater quantity if she is to maintain supremacy in the finished product. With the settlement of the present textile strike, domestic consumption will be higher, not lower. Theoretically there is a world shortage of cotton and until the statistical position is corrected, a condition that cannot materialize for at least another year the average price will remain as high if not higher than the present

General business, according to the index figure of the Babson chart, stands at 17 percent below normal. This is the same as last week, and is favorable considering the serious loss suffered through the various great labor strikes now in progress.

Rev. Preston Reports the Ancient Clinic Upon Work of Christ

"The Power of the Lord" was the text of Rev. Harley G. Preston, at the Pacific avenue Methodist church, Sunday. He said in part: Text: "And the power of the Lord was present to hear them,"

"This takes us back 1900 years to a clinic in Capernaum. The man to be resumed. who writes the story was himself a physician who had practiced in Antioch, after taking his degree and the story of her career, written ancient masters of the healing art. Here is the story as he tells in the "Liberte," an afternoon newsart. Here is the story as he tells

"A man named Jesus had come "turn" at the Accacia restauran to town saying that he was come from God. He preached on the great realities with such simplicity and power that the common people heard him gladly, and hung upon his words. This was all the more strange because it appeared that he was a mere carpenter, with no learning beyond that obtained in the rabbinical schools.

"But stranger things were to happen. This man proposed to prove his claims by healing sick people free of charge. The en-closed court and piazzas of the home where he was staying were crowded with patients and their friends. The lame came hobbling on crutches, mothers brought their sick children in their arms; many of the sufferers were carried on litters; and 'they were healed, everyone of whatsoever disease he

"There were scribes and rabbis, with official members of the synogogues from the neighboring towns, looking on with critical eyes; but what could they say? It was a great day for Carpernaum, for many homes that in the morning had been darkened by the shadow of pain were at eventide "The teachings of Christ are as real and influential now as ever. Therefore Parker, while disavowing faith in the supernatural claims of Jesus, was frank to say, 'His doctrine is beautiful as the light, sublime as heaven and true as God.' Underneath all civilization you will find His precepts. Cut them out of progress and from that time schools, hospitals and com-monthwealths will totter to their fall. The world is full of preachers and teachers; but by common consent, 'never man spake like this man.' The voices of other, old times worthies come down to us in faint and dying echoes; His is a living voice, more audible, more widely heard, more powerful than ever among men and nations.

"A mere peasant—an unlettered carpenter, as His critics said-calling to the north 'give up' and to the south 'keep not back;' to the "I am particularly interested in cotton. The condition is now esti-

"Nor has His healing power suffered any change. 'He is the same yesterday and today and forever.' foolish folk seem determined to make an absurdity out of it.

"The power for physical relief is subject to the same conditions as other prayer; no more, no less. The sufferer who pleads with Christ for help, recognizing his superior wisdom as well as His infinite love, is sure of a hearing. The answer may come as it came to Paul pleading for deliverance from his thorn, 'My grace shall be sufficient for thee;' or it may appear that one's sickness. like that of Lazarus, is 'for the glory of God;' in which case, of course, the filial spirit as well as sound reason will evoke the re-sponse. 'Thy will be done,' for then 'Ill that God blesses is our good, And unblest good is ill;

And all is right that seems most wrong, If it be His will.' To insist upon the cure of every malady would obviously leave no room for any judgment but our own; and besides, if all such prayer were answered in accordance with the nearsighted petitioner's wish and will, no one would ever die. Then what a world this world of our's would be.

"But when one prays for spiritual healing the answer is always forthcoming; because sin can never be to the glory of God. Here is the prescription of the Great Physician: 'Believe; only believe.' That is to say, 'Take me at my word.' 'Put away all prejudgments that could interpose betwixt thee and me. Accept the proffer of my pardoning grace as fully and freely as I offer it.'

"At the risk of seeming to repeat, let us say again that all Christ's miracles of healing converge on his one great miracle of absolution. To open a few blind eyes and cure a few paralytics in a world full of blind and halt and withered folk, would have been an inconsequential thing to do, but for its evidential value in demonstration of the fact that the Wonder-worker had 'power to forgive sin.' For sin is the very root and occasion of all the troubles that oppress us.
"The clinic at Capernaum is over. The people are dispersing to their several homes. Some of percent over last year, while the prospective yield shows an increase of 40 percent. With the exception of 1918, this is the largest figure on record. There is no fundamental reason why rye should not follow the general trend of agricultural products.

"With the advent of the new crop a marked price elevation is not logical. Still no serious price decline should eventuate this fall, and the 1922-23 seasonal rise should be more pronounced than specifically and the serious price and the serious price decline should be more pronounced than serious price and the serious price and a good many other to them have recived impressions that will soon vanish into thin air; others are so bewildered that they know not what to think; still others are an interest and a good many other postoffice in the wastebasket," postoffice in the wastebasket, "postoffice in the wastebasket," postoffice in the wastebasket, "bostoffice in the wastebasket," postoffice in the wastebasket, "bostoffice in the wastebasket," postoffice in the wastebasket, where the have recived impressions that will soon vanish into thin air; others are so bewildered that they know not what to think; still others are so bewildered that they know not what to think; still others are so bewildered that they know not what to think; still others are so bewildered that they know not what to think; still others are so bewildered that they know not what to think; still others are so bewildered that they know not what to think; still others are so bewildered that they know not what to think; still others are so bewildered that they know not what to think; still others are so bewildered that they know not what to think; still others are so bewildered that they know not what to think; still others are so bewildered that they know not wh
